SCOTTISH WESTERN DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIPS

Irvine, Ayrshire

GLEN STEWART, a Scottish track, road and cross-country international, used his experience to add another title to his collection by finishing three seconds ahead of Mark Pollard, Denis Shepherd reports.

It was Pollard, last year's bronze medallist, who made the early running with Stewart and last year's U17 champion Conor McNulty chasing some way behind for the first mile. The pair soon caught Pollard but Stewart then surged into a 60-metre lead which he held until 500 metres from the finish. At this point Pollard changed up a gear and quickly left McNulty behind but Stewart had the situation under control and held on to his rapidly dwindling lead. McNulty finished clear of 2004 runner-up Iain MacCorquodale who led Ronhill Cambuslang to a successful team title defence.

Suzanne Benyon-Owen, showing marked improvement after her seventh position 12 months ago, led the women's race for most of the way although finishing just five seconds ahead of Iona Robertson. Lesley Chisholm, fourth last year, took bronze another five seconds behind. Robertson was the first counter for Bellahouston Road Runners, who took their first district team title on countback from City of Glasgow, winners for several consecutive seasons.

The U17 men's race saw a close battle between Daniel Swanson and Scott Hawkins, the 2004 U15 winner, until Swanson pulled away over the last half-mile to win by 14 seconds. U15 track champions Josephine Moultrie and Beth Duff finished clear of the U17 runners in their combined race, with 800m specialist Moultrie showing too much speed for 1500m runner Duff in the closing stages.
