

East of Scotland athletes dominated the annual East versus West women's cross country match, at Dundee, winning all five of the team titles and four of the five individual titles.

Penny Gunstone won the senior four-mile race finishing 75 yards ahead of team-mate Gillian Hutchison with Janet Higgins—the first West girl to finish—in third place.

Elizabeth Trotter was the only West girl to break the East monopoly of individual titles when she won the intermediate race from Kerry Robinson after a race-long tussle.
