Scottish Representative Matches & Inter Area Matches

St Andrews, December 12

For some it passed for thunder, but cross country buffs in St Andrews on Saturday knew better. Terry Mitchell had just been beaten on home ground and as man in charge of proceedings Ronny Morrison put it – "the ground shook".

The man upsetting the record book was Chris Robison. Ostensibly he and Mitchell were in the same team, representing the cross country union interests against the universities, banks and the civil service, and at the end of the first two-mile lap Mitchell was off the pace leading the second pack while a gang of four — Robison, Allistair Russell, David Donnet and Ian Hamer — were out in front.

Mitchell made his first move early in the second lap however and took up the lead with Hamer and Robison in close contention.

Half way round Robison upped the pace ready to make it hurt for Mitchell. He made a five metre break but the race was far from over. Mitchell responded. He dropped Hamer, caught Robison and drove on to pass him. From then on they pecked at each others heels until they topped St Andrews' famous hill for the third and last time.

Robison likes to make hills count and on Saturday he did just that. He broke clear with the line almost in sight and Mitchell was beaten. The joy of the day was that Mitchell did not know it. He fought his way back pace by aching pace until he ran out of distance while still a metre separated him from his goal.
