BRITISH ATHLETICS
CROSS CHALLENGE

WELCOME

It is with great pleasure that I can welcome you all to the first Cross Challenge meeting of 2020 and fourth of the season here in Stirling.

In 2019, we were treated to some incredible performances on the grass and I hope that we will be able to say 2020 will bring more of the same for our endurance athletes.

Looking back at last year's performances, some of the personal highlights for me were Jenny Nesbitt & Adam Hickey winning the Inter County Championships in Loughborough to book their places on the British team for the World Cross Country Championships and the 2019/20 season curtain raiser in Cardiff.

Further afield, the performances by all the Brits at those championships yielded incredible results, with the British team topping the medal table at the European Cross Country Championships with five gold medals and one bronze medal, capping a memorable year on the circuit.

The Cross Challenge is making a welcome return to Scotland and with this afternoon's race incorporating the Scottish Inter-District races and doubling as the Home Nations and Celtic International to make it a real bumper event.

This course is not an unfamiliar one as many will remember the British team donning their spikes against counterparts from Europe and America last year in the Great Stirling XCountry. With that event not taking place this year, I am delighted we were able to step in and incorporate the event into the Cross Challenge series.

2019 was my first full year overseeing the Cross Challenge series in my role as Interim Domestic Athletics Operations Manager and it has been clear to me that cross country remains a very strong part of the beating heart of athletics in Great Britain.

What really captivated me was the number of parents and fans that were lining the home straight in Loughborough last March to catch even a fleeting glimpse of their sons, daughters, friends and clubmates as they cut the tape at Prestwold Hall.

I would once again like to thank all the volunteers and race officials who ensure that races like this can go ahead and give a further thanks to all spectators and parents that line the course to throw their support behind everyone taking part come rain or shine.

I'd like to wish everyone competing all the very best for 2020 and hope that you achieve all the goals that you set out for the year ahead.

WELCOME

FROM JOHN RODGER, CONVENER ROAD & CROSS COUNTRY COMMISSION

On behalf of scottishathletics I would like to welcome competitors and spectators from Scotland, England, Ireland, Northern Ireland and Wales to Run Stirling a Festival of Running which is set against the iconic backdrop of Stirling Castle and across the grounds of Stirling Golf Club and historic Kings Park.

There is a feast of cross country running that starts with a 1K race for Primary Schools. This is followed by a series of races that incorporates the Scottish Inter-District Championships featuring representative teams from the North, East, West districts and Scottish Universities, the Celtic Cross Country International featuring teams from Scotland, Wales, Ireland and Northern Ireland and the Home Countries Cross Country International featuring teams from Scotland, England, Northern Ireland and Wales.

We are also delighted to welcome back to Scotland the British Cross Challenge. We last staged a leg of this series in 2004 and we would like to thank UK Athletics for their support in bringing this event to Stirling, with 1150 entries for these races, we would certainly hope the Cross Challenge could return to Scotland on a regular basis.

Vinco will record the race and in addition to their usual highlight videos they will have an 'as live' online broadcast on the evening of the event.

We wish to record our appreciation of the assistance provided by official partners Stirling Council, Event Scotland, and Active Stirling in staging the event. Without the support of partners this event would not be taking place today. We would also like to thank the many officials and volunteers who will make the day a great success.

Finally, to all athletes and spectators at Stirling today please enjoy the challenge of the competition and have an excellent day out.

The history and results of the Scottish Cross Country Championship events can be found at <http://www.salroadrunningandcrosscountrymedalists.co.uk/Archive/index.html>.

John Rodger

Convener Road and Cross Country Commission, scottishathletics

Convenor of Stirling Council's Community Planning and Regeneration Committee, Councillor Chris Kane, said:

"I have great pleasure, on behalf of Stirling Council, in welcoming you to our city for our New Year festival of running - RunStirling. Stirling has a growing reputation for bringing top class sporting opportunities to the area and I want this event to become as synonymous with the start of the New Year as fireworks and resolutions.

"My thanks to all of the organisers for putting in the hours to get ready for today and whether you are taking part, here to support somebody, watch the amazing elite athletes in action, or simply here to soak up a great sporting atmosphere in spectacular surroundings, I know you will have a great day out. Good luck and enjoy your RunStirling - and if you are looking for your next challenge, there is still time to get training for Stirling's marathon in October."

Vice Convenor of Stirling Council's Community Planning and Regeneration Committee Councillor Maureen Bennison said:

"I would like to wish you all a happy new year and join with Councillor Kane in welcoming you today. It is great to see such a fun and family-friendly event is helping to ring in the New Year at Stirling.

"We believe this is an excellent event which is accessible for the whole community. Good luck to everyone taking part today."

Look back at 2019

The season as a whole for me has been OK. I started off planning to run a marathon but then got injured and just recovering from injury I was never able to get one in.

I did some 5Ks and 10Ks in the summer, I didn't run any PBs but I was pretty close on both fronts. I did some orienteering in the summer and came second in a world cup race which is as good as I have done before and next year I think that will be a big goal for me.

I'm happy I managed to perform well in that, off not much specific training and then the cross country season I started really late. I did the Leeds Abbey Dash and then pretty much went straight into the Cross Country season and I was really happy to make the team for the Europeans.

I was quite satisfied with how I ran, I think I wanted to run better as an individual but you only have to look at the team scores at the end to see that lots of people struggled on that course.

It isn't typical that you'd win the team gold with such a high score so I was happy to be in the team for that, run well and come away with a gold medal.

Looking into 2020 I'll switch a lot more of my focus onto the roads rather than the cross country in the next few months.

Round off 2019 with gold

It was really good and it's something I'll look back on fondly. I know that I'd have liked to have run better as an individual but there's no way I'd have swapped a better individual result for a worse team result.

To win another team medal is great and the fact that it was a gold one is even more impressive for me.

Winning off little training

I didn't do too many cross races but I feel that I performed reasonably well at Liverpool. It was really muddy up there and really tough but in the lead up to that I'd been training really well and fitness is fitness at the end of the day.

I've been quite consistent over the last few months which is a really pleasing thing with my performances and I'm glad that I've been able to show that.

Targets for 2020

The main goal for me is the world orienteering champs which are in July and I think I have a decent shot at a medal. I've come fourth at those championships in the past and I won a medal at the European Championships and I want to complete the set as it were and get a medal at the worlds.

In the early part of the year, the Barca half will be the main aim, another little change of focus prior to the orienteering and then there might be the chance to do some more track running which is what I find works for me.

Stirling

I really like that event. I ran the inter-districts for a few years when it was in Edinburgh and the international match last year and I was really pleased to be a part of that team and hopefully with it becoming a cross challenge it can still be a really strong race.

It's a good competition and the Cross Challenge always brings out a strong field. Even as the inter-district race it generally attracts the best athletes in Scotland to test their nerve and I think it'll attract the best from the home nations as well.

Why Scotland

Scottish district running is in really good health at the moment and there's a really good level of competition week-in week-out and it's something that I want to be a part of. I like racing and even though my focus may be elsewhere after Christmas, the fact it's still a really strong race with good competition that's the main thing that draws me to run at Stirling.

Cross Country importance

I just like the variety. I'm more of a jack of all trades rather than a master of anything which I think shows in my performances because there's a good level of consistency in the races that I do. I think if I were only to run on one surface I'd be worse off for it but they all compliment each other and they all benefit what I'm trying to get out of it.

Being adaptable and able to run on different terrains is vital.

Course

The interesting thing with cross country is that you can have a really good idea of what the course is going to be but the conditions on the day can dramatically alter what you're running on.

I think half the lap is as flat as a pancake and then the other half is quite undulating and that could be super-fast on a dry day or it could end up being like Liverpool and become a real slog really quickly.

It's less of an advantage because the conditions can change things so much.

Racing Butchart

It's a funny one, the field itself looks really strong and coming up against Andrew Butchart will be a funny one.

Less than a month ago we were teammates stood on the podium winning team gold and now we're facing off against each other looking to see who comes out on top.

The fact that there's competition from the home nations with the meet doubling as an international will be an interesting battle.
