

BARR'S EDINBURGH TO GLASGOW RELAY

DESPITE claiming just one of the fastest individual stage times of the day, Leslie Deans Racing Club battled their way to a fourth successive Edinburgh to Glasgow title, Fraser Clyne report

They now need one more win to emulate Victoria Park AC's five-in-a-row in the 1950s.

Conditions for the 56th edition of the great inter-city race were absolutely horrendous, with driving rain and a strong westerly wind blowing into the runners' faces throughout the 45-mile journey across Central Scotland.

Terry Reid gave 1989 winners Dundee Hawkhill Harriers an early lead on the opening stage. The Taysiders had hoped to field Liz and Peter McColgan, but both were unable to appear and the Hawks' resources were subsequently severely stretched.

David Cameron brought Shettleston

through in second place behind Reid while veteran Brian Kirkwood opened up for Leslie Deans by finishing just 10sec off the pace.

Phil Mowbray was the man of the moment on the testing second leg. The British junior track international, who also has hill running ambitions, blasted Hunters Bog Trotters into the lead with the fastest time of 29:50 for the six mile stint.

Ken Chapman pulled Leslie Deans up into second place, 36sec behind the leaders, while Cambuslang consolidated third spot with Shettleston slipping to fourth.

Dave Gardiner put the defending champions into the lead for the first time on the mainly uphill third stage, with mountain running expert Dermot McGonigle lifting Shettleston back into second.

The fastest time was, however, recorded by Falkirk's John Sherban, who was over a minute quicker than any of his stage rivals.

Billy Coyle took Shettleston closer to the leaders on the fourth leg but Racing Club's Alan Robson still held a 19sec advantage at the end.

Tommy Murray clocked the fastest stage time of the day when lifting Spango Valley from 18th to 14th.

Olympic steeplechaer Tom Hanlon extended Leslie Deans' lead over Shettleston on the rolling fifth stage while Stephen Wylie hauled Cambuslang into a clear third place with the fastest time.

But if Leslie Deans felt it was all over, they were wrong. On the hilly but fast seven-mile sixth stage, Graham Wight turned in arguably the best individual performance of the day, clawing back 54sec of John Robson's lead and putting Shettleston right back into contention for their first title since 1976.

It was all set up for an exciting finale with Robson handing Frank McGowan a 35m lead over David Connelly at the start of the penultimate leg.

The Shettleston man edged closer and closer to his prey, eventually taking a three-second lead at the final handover.

But then Racing Club's Davie Ross unleashed a superb last stage run, taking over a minute off Shettleston's Alan Little through the East End streets of Glasgow. The title had been secured well before the finish line in Crownpoint Stadium.

While Leslie Deans celebrated a fourth title win, Shettleston had the consolation of collecting their first place medals since 1978.

Clydesdale Harriers were controversially awarded the prize for the most meritorious performance after finishing ninth in what was their first appearance in the race since 1991, when they were last.

Seventh finishers Metro Aberdeen were, however, aggrieved by the decision. The North-East side were making their first ever appearance in the race, never before having done enough to even qualify for the event. They found it hard to understand how race officials could ignore them after finishing two places ahead of Clydesdale.
