

'Allan Scally' 4 × 5M Road Relay, at Baillieston (October 30th). Edinburgh Southern displayed their great strength-in-depth when they narrowly won the 'Allan Scally' Relay with an entirely different four-man squad from that which won the Scottish National CC Relay Champs at Hawick just one week earlier. But it was rather a case of two other clubs losing the race due to poor team selection, for both Durham University and Falkirk Victoria could have bettered Southern's time if they had substituted just one runner in their teams.

If Durham had put Tim Nash, who ran 23:52, on the final lap instead of Chris Chandler, they would have been 16 seconds faster and beaten Southern by nine seconds. But the real unfortunates were Falkirk, whose 'B' team, after being given a great start when Jim Dingwall finished second on the first lap, would have won the race with a time of 1:33:20 if John McGarva from their 'A' team had run his 22:58 for the 'B' instead of David Lothian (24:13) on the final lap.

Shettleston Harriers and their backroom helpers performed their usual fine job by producing a complete set of race results, with every individual lap time, within an hour of the race finish.
